SO MUCH IS SAID

And done in advertising to mislead the public that it is hard to pick out the grain from the chaff. Everybody says he's got the biggest stock—that his goods are better made and that he sells at the lowest prices. Here are a few facts that our brother clothiers in Honolulu can't dispute:

This is the only store in Honolulu that sells ready-to-wear clothing exclusively. We MUST have variety and sizes to fit you, because we have no (big profit) made-to-order department to fall back on.

We have two stores—each filled to overflowing with bright, new merchandise—every inch of space crowded. No other stores in Honolulu use more than one store for sale purposes.

We buy every stitch of our own goods for spot cash. We certainly ought to own our goods at bottom figures, and we only grow bigger by selling that way.

Nothing is too good for our trade. Suits this season as fine as cloth can be woven—up to $25.00.

This motto rules the business. If you buy it here and it goes wrong, it is made right and your money back if you want it.

MORE THAN EIGHT INCHES OF RAIN

Kahului Flooded and Carpenter
McClennan Hurt by Fall-

(Special Correspondence.)

WAILUKU, Maui, Feb. 9.—Maui has been in the grasp of the second great kona of the season for the past week. The storm king has been rampant, seeking to subdue old earth by hurling upon it terrible northeast blasts, fierce southern gales, bolts of electricity, showers of hailstones and downpours of rain.

The storm of last November continued but four days; the present one began on Monday and the kona wind is still blowing briskly today. One of the prominent characteristics of the present kona was the presence of a large amount of electricity in the atmosphere Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Electrical disturbances of short duration take place several times every rainy season, but a display of electricity continuing for four days is an occurrence not recalled by the oldest inhabitant.

During the morning of Monday the wind began to blow moderately strong from the south. In the afternoon it suddenly changed to the northeast and the "makani kiu," so-called by the natives, began to send forth most terrible blasts, riving in force the old-time kona wind. Leaves and branches of trees soon filled the air, many trees themselves were uprooted, chicken-coops, pig pens, shanties and out-buildings of all descriptions were overturned and rolled over and over. About 5 p. m. two plantation dwelling houses at Kahului were thrown over, exposing their inmates to the fury of the wind. In one of these houses was a sick Portuguese woman, who cried piteously until rescued by her friends.

The main wall on the makai side of the Makawao court house and jail was blown down and the building completely denuded of clapboards. Old Hawaiians say that years ago at Keanae this "makani kiu" blew over every house in the village on the beach. This wind is, so they say, the vanguard, the forerunner of a hard kona storm, and the saying proved true this time. Tuesday morning the wind changed to the south again and blew with great velocity, frequently bearing in from the sea beyond Maalea bay great masses of deep-black clouds, which soon spread over central Maui, causing downpours of rain, accompanied with repeated flashes of vivid lightning and the muffled roar of thunder. Wednesday the storm was less severe, but during the night and on Thursday it was as fierce as on Tuesday.

On Friday came a downpour like a cloudburst, flooding everything, changing roads and byways into running rivers. During this heavy rain of several hours' duration a hail storm for a short time visited the upper part of the eastern slope of Haleakala. Hailstones of rough ice, the size of the end of one's thumb, rattled against house walls, almost cracking the window panes.

The rain continued during Friday night and this (Saturday) morning is pleasant but the south wind has freshened almost to a gale again. It is difficult to prophesy whether or not the end of the greatest kona storm of the season is at hand.

During the kona between eight and ten inches of rain have fallen. Kahului is again flooded and so is the track of the Kahului Railroad Company here and there between Paia and Kahului, though the trains ran as usual yesterday.

Maui people did not get their Honolulu mail until Thursday night and Friday morning, Lahaina people being more fortunate than other Mauiites. No anxiety was felt concerning the non-arrival of steamers, as the cause of their detention was self-evident.

The Kahului-Makawao road was impassable for vehicles during Thursday and Friday on account of the wind and debris accumulated by the freshet at Camp 3, Spreckelsville.

Telephone lines to Lahaina, to Kahului, and in fact all over central Maui have been broken, repeatedly during the week by the wind.

ACCIDENT AT KAHULUI.
A disastrous and almost fatal accident occurred at Kahului on Monday afternoon. Mr. McClennan, the head carpenter at Kahului, was mounting the stairway to the lookout station to watch the progress of the coming storm, which was tossing the lumber like paper in the lumber yard.

When near the top, the wind blew the stairway down. Mr. McClennan fell on the roof of the building underneath and from there dropped to the ground, a distance of about twelve feet, striking on his head and cutting his face and ear badly. He was rendered unconscious by the fall and Superintendent Filler at once ordered a special train prepared and had him taken to Malulani hospital, where he was attended by Dr. Weddick. It was Tuesday morning before he recovered consciousness and it will be some days before he will be able to be out.

On Tuesday morning when the children assembled at the Wailuku school the wind was blowing a gale.

Soon after school was called the old barn which answers as a school building began to rock and sway in the wind. School was at once dismissed and the children were hustled out of the building, which momentarily threatened to tumble down over their heads. No further argument need be used as to the necessity of a new school building in Wailuku.

PRECIOUS BABIES.

Mother's comfort. Father's delight. God's dearest earthly gift, to man. What a happy sight, the healthy, robust, vigorous, rollicking, always the same baby. What a sad sight, the puny, blue and pale, restless, crying baby. Nine out of ten times the child is troubled with worms. It shows it in convulsions, spasms, colic. And ten times out of ten Kichapoo Indian Worm Killer will drive out the pesky life-eating worms. It is nature's remedy, and as the healthy child is the natural child, it must make the sickly child healthy. The Indians, living close to nature, discovered the remedy. For centuries they used it to make their babies rugged, powerful, fearless. What it has done for the child of the forest it will do for the child of the civilized—cure. That is what it has been doing for years. You can get it of your druggist for 25 cents. Be sure and get the genuine. The child's life is too precious to trifle with worthless substitutes. Hobron Drug Co., agents for the Kichapoo Indian Remedies.

Butcher—Come, John, be lively now; break the bone in Mr. Williamson's chops and put Mr. Smith's ribs in the basket for him—John (briskly)—All right, sir, just as soon as I've sawed off Mr. Murphy's leg.—Tit-Bits.
